YATES FAMILY

WILLIAM YEATES (YATES)

1000

William Yeates (The name was changed to Yates in later generations) was born 1727 and according to several DAR membership applications his birth took place in Virginia, although I have found no substantiating evidence of this. He died testate in Wake County in 1808. He married, perhaps in N.C., 1748 Mary — who was born 1732 in N.C. She may have been Mary Tapp as William Tapp of Culpeper Co., Va. names daughter Mary Yates (wife of William) in his will.

William served in the Revolutionary War as a private in McRee's Company from N.C.

On 5 June 1784 William Yeates purchased 490 acres in Wake County for 100 pounds

(proclamation money) from Absalom Harwood. This land was on the "Indian Branch waters of New Hope." This same date he purchased in Chatham County 600 acres for 100 pounds from Absalom Harwood. This must have been the same tract, extending through both counties.

In 1792 a deed in Chatham County regarding land sold by "William Yeats Sener of Wake County" to "William Yeats Juner of Chatham County" shows that William, Jr. paid 50 pounds for 280 acres. Lewis Wimberly, William's son-in-law, was listed as a witness on this deed. William signed with his mark. This same year William bought land from John Harwood who was perhaps another son-in-law.

On 17 Mar 1807 William sold 300 acres of land to Alsey Yeats "in the county of Wake and Chatham ... on the Indian Branch of New Hope" for 100 pounds current money. This land was bounded on part by land belonging to William Yeats, Jr. and also by land belonging to Matthew Yeats.

I regret that I have been unable to learn anything of a personal nature about William Yates. He most certainly was a planter. He and Mary had thirteen children:

1. Matthew, b. 1760 or 1773, d. 1830 or 1837, m. 7 Nov. 1793 Elizabeth Wimberly (d. 1806), m. 2 Wake Co., N.C. 1807 Elizabeth Baucom (b. 1783, d. 1830/39).
2. William, b. Wake Co. 1762, d. Montgomery Co., Ga. 1850 (or 1827) intestate, m. N.C. 7 Nov. 1793 Mary Wimberly (b. N.C. 1764/5, d. Ga. 1856), daughter of Lewis and Martha (Barbee) Wimberly.
3. Sally.
4. Margaret, m. Bertus Upchurch.

5. Patsey (probably Martha, but apparently referred to as "Henneritte" in her father's will), m. William Babb and moved to Oglethorpe County, Ga.
6. John.
7. Elizabeth, m. — Gregory.
8. Mildred, m. — Harwood.
9. Crecy or Crissey, m. — Strickland.
10. Jethro, m. Nancy Harwood.
11. Alsy, m. Cynthia Malone.

YATES AND ALLIED FAMILIES

PREFACE

This writer has spent the past twenty years in researching the Yates and related families in the Eastern States of the United States. I have made many trips into Virginia and North Carolina, sometimes twice per calendar year. And, of course, my research has been extensive in Tennessee.

In these many genealogical research trips I have intensively examined records in libraries, courthouses, and cemeteries, and I have consulted with hundreds of individuals in my areas of research regarding any or all known Yates families. This has required many trips by automobile, living in hotels and motels, and eating meals "on the run." It has been an expensive undertaking. However, I have now recorded my findings into a volume which I feel is unmatched by anything similarly written on these families and this book is offered to those who purchase it at only the cost of my paying for its publishing!

One of the regrets in my search is that I have been unable to definitely prove the parents of our John Yates (1). However, I have been able to connect and prove many errors that have appeared in earlier print and have been handed down from our third generations from John Yates. This has been in print by myself and others. There is research that shows a John Yates, b. March 26, 1728-29, of the early Baltimore County, Maryland, families. At this point I do not tie our John Yates with the one b. 1728-29. However, I enter this matter here to verify that I am acquainted with this research.

Having been born in Tennessee on the land grants of James Yates, Sr., and Thomas Kilgore, Sr., that they each received before Cross Plains, Robertson County, were known as a town and a county, I feel fully qualified to record both my personal knowledge and my research findings. Fourth and fifth generations of these two antecedents now reside on this land.

This book has been written and outlined in genealogical order with the reader in mind. It will become a valuable research tool for practicing genealogists. Also, it will be invaluable to those hundreds of descendants in this family who have a desire to and a need to know about their family heritage. It has been hard work. But it is a "labor of love" and I hope its contents will transcend for centuries to come. These are the primary purposes for which Yates and Allied Families has been written.

To supplement the genealogical recordings, many pictures and original court records appear in the book. This, of course, gives the book added attraction to whom I hope will be many hundreds of readers throughout subsequent years.

CHAPTER 1 -- EARLY YATES AND RELATED FAMILIES IN AMERICA

Individuals by the name of Yates were among the earliest pioneers in this country. Two individuals by this name were living here when the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth. The first Yates, according to the records, to discover America was "Ferdinando Yate, gent," who arrived at Jamestown in the Virginia Colony on the ship "Margaret" in December, 1619. He wrote back to England telling what a beautiful country it was. He returned to England on the ship "Supply" on April 3, 1621.¹

The next Yates to reach Virginia was Edward Yates, born 1606, a boy of 14, who, with about 50 other young fellows, arrived on the Ship "Duty" in May 1620.²

A Leonard Yates was living in Flowerdieu Hundred. A James Yates with a will in Charles County, Maryland, in 1750, lists five sons, Charles, James, William, Leonard, and John Yates, and daughters, Dorothy Ann Nevit, Margaret, and Elizabeth Yates, and wife, Jaynet.³

A tax taken in 1623 of the Virginia Colony shows a "Mr. Yates" living at Elizabeth City. One of these was John Yates, who in 1636 was granted 350 acres of land in Elizabeth City County, Virginia. Their names appear in Virginia Land Grants.⁴

The head of Middlesex County, Virginia, Yates' was Bartholomew Yates (1676-1734) and a graduate of Oxford University, who was Professor of Divinity at William and Mary College. His parents were William and Catherine Yates of Shockley, England. His son, the Rev. William Yates, was President of William and Mary College from 1761-1764. Bishop Meade of Virginia wrote of him half century ago as "One of that family which so abounded in ministers," and Goode, in his Virginia Cousins says of him that the "Rev. William Yates, who married Elizabeth Randolph, and his brother, the Rev. Robert Yates, who married Elizabeth's sister, Mary Randolph, daughters of William Randolph of Turkey Island, were the ancestors of most of the Yates' family in Virginia."⁵

A Thomas Yates in York County, Virginia, leaves a will March 7, 1693, with wife, Elliner, daughter Margaret, and a son, Peter Yates, living in New Kent County, Virginia. A John Yates witnessed the will of John Custis August 21, 1704, New Kent County, Virginia. A John Yates deceased May 16, 1718, leaving a son, John, Jr., New Kent County, Virginia.⁶

John and George Yates are listed with land grants in the Luenburg County, Virginia Old Land Grant book. They were living in what became Bedford County, Virginia, in 1753. The George Yates bought land in Orange County, North Carolina, from William Chambers while living in Bedford County, Virginia. He sold the land in 1761 to John Pryor. The records of early deeds were destroyed. When the Clerk recorded the deed of George Yate in the Court Minutes, he recorded it John Yates in the place of George Yate which has been proven by the deed where George sold the land.⁷

Three William Yates' were living in Mecklenburg, Halifax, and Bedford Counties, Virginia. The William Moore Yates in Mecklenburg seems to be the William Yates with a will in Halifax County, Virginia, in 1822. The William Yates was living in Bedford County, Virginia, in 1765 when he and his wife, Ann Thornbury Yates, sold land to a Thomas Cockey and a Joseph Ensor in Baltimore County, Maryland. He received a grant in Bedford County, Virginia, in 1771.⁸ The George and William Yates would seem to be from the Maryland Yate family.

Two early John Yates' (Yeats) are found in early grants of Halifax County, Virginia. Years of research indicate that one of the John Yeats of Halifax County -later a part of Pittsylvania County, Virginia, descended from John Yeats of Lower Norfolk County, Virginia. He received several grants in 1636 on both sides of the Elizabeth River near Smithfield and Suffolk. He was a vestryman connected with several Colonial Churches in the Norfolk area, and founded the first free school in Virginia.⁹ The John and Elizabeth Yates, deceased 1726-1731, Richmond County, Virginia, North Farnham Parish, seem to be the ones in early Colonial records of North Carolina by Parker.

Another famous family of the name Yeats was that of those living in Eastern New York. These were descendants of Joseph Yates of Leeds, Yorkshire, England, who settled in Albany soon after the surrender of that province by the Dutch to the English in 1664.¹⁰

The first Yates' in Pennsylvania appears to have been John and James Yates from Walton in Lancashire, England, who landed in Philadelphia in 1684. A James Yates in 1737, with another pioneer, was probably a grandson of the above James Yates, who made that "Indian Walk" or boundary line run famous in Pennsylvania history, going between "sunrise and sunset on one day and sunrise and noon of the next 86 miles through the woods."¹¹

In Maryland records it is shown that George Yate, a Deputy Surveyor of that province, made his will proven in 1691 in Anne Arundel County, Maryland, naming wife, Mary, and children, George, John, and Ann.¹² A John Yates of Dorchester County, Maryland, in 1677 and a Robert Yates, aged 30, were of Charles County in 1686. These Yates' descend from Berkshire, England.¹³

The first Yates' to settle in Massachusetts was John Yates, whom the Duxbury records show had a son, John, born there to his wife, Mary, on August 15, 1650. He removed to Eastham, on Cape Cod, and died. Mary, his wife, was granted Administrator of his estate on June 8, 1651. John Yates, of Eastham, probably a grandson, married Abigail Rogers and very likely founded the long line of Yates' on Cape Cod--Josiah, John, Joseph, and Isaiah Yates. They were soldiers in the Revolutionary War.¹⁴

The Round Pond Yates' were the earliest Yates' in Maine. These descend from the John Yates of Cape Cod.

In New Jersey, there were Yates' families at Cape May in 1762. There were Yates' families in nearly all the 13 Colonies long before the Revolutionary War.

In the Colonial Records of North Carolina by Parker a John Yates appears in Court records November-December, 1696-1701. In Bertie County, North Carolina, a William Yates made a will December 23, 1751, and a James Yates of Carteret County, North Carolina, made his will November 8, 1750.¹⁵

John, Thomas, James, and William Yates were in Roan County, North Carolina, July 12, 1763. John Yates bought personal things, cows, a feather bed, and furniture from a William Bobbitt February 28, 1769, Roan County, North Carolina. A Henry Yates and a Robbard (Robert) Kilgore are listed in the 1750 Tax of Granville County, North Carolina. A. Henry Yates was transported to Elizabeth City, Virginia 1635.

Following the termination of the French and Indian War in 1760, the concluding Treaty of Paris in 1763, and during the final stages of that war, thousands of the colony of Virginia inhabitants and inhabitants from other nearby colonies migrated into the Carolinas. But the first settlers that came to North Carolina came there as early as 1656. And there were settlers in Albermarle County, North Carolina, even before 1656. Forty-two years had elapsed between the first settlement and the first town in North Carolina.

In 1707 the first settlement was made in Craven County, North Carolina. A colony of French Huguenot settled in the year 1690 above the falls of the James River. They were not satisfied and moved southward and settled on the Trent and Neuse Rivers, mostly on the Trent in Craven County.

In 1664 part of the colony between Albermarle and Clarendon was formed into a colony which was given the name of Bath. In 1705 both of these were divided into three precincts, Craven being including in the Archdale Precinct.¹

During the first half of the 1700's Scotch-Irish and German settlers began to arrive in the back country from Pennsylvania. The French and Indian War (1754-1763) sounded the doom on French domination in North America. So then settlers could and did roam freely up and down the southeast coast from Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia, and on to Florida. Following this as years passed the other southeastern states were formed.

In 1710 Baron Christopher de Graffenreid established a colony of Swiss emigrants and German Protestant refugees from the Palatinate. He selected a site on the Trent River and called it New Bern. The next year the Tuscarora Indians killed 130 of these pioneer settlers, and then, moving north, attacked Albermarle Sound communities.

Only after two years of bitter warfare were the Indians driven out. Many Highland Scots came to North Carolina after their defeat at Culloden Moor in 1746. Along with settlers from neighboring colonies, they made up the 300,000 North Carolina residents who had spread from the Atlantic seaboard on east to the Appalachians before the outbreak of the Revolutionary War.

These North Carolina colonists were an independence-loving people. Their resisting nullified the dreaded Stamp Act imposed by the crown. In the western counties of North Carolina a group of pioneers known as the "Regulators," rebelled in 1768 against taxes and methods of the English royal officials. They were defeated by Governor William Tyron in a battle along Alamance Creek, May 16, 1771. Yet the struggle continued under such rebel leaders as George Durant, Thomas Pollock, Edward Mosley, Hugh Waddle, and Cornelius Harnett.

In the face of strong opposition from the royal governor, Josiah Martin, North Carolinians organized a provincial congress, August 25, 1774. It developed plans for a temporary government. When the news of the Battle of Lexington came, citizens of Mecklenburg County met at Charlotte. According to local history, on May 20, 1775, they drew up the first declaration of independence in the colonies, the "Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence." This date is on the seal and flag. More certain of proof, however, was a meeting on May 15 of the same year in Charlotte, which adopted more moderate resolutions, the Mecklenburg Resolves.

North Carolina's militia gained a victory over government troops at Moore's Creek Bridge, February 27, 1776. On April 12 of the same year North Carolina's provincial congress directed its delegates to the Continental Congress to vote for independence. North Carolina was the first colony to take this important step toward freedom from English rule. Following the adoption of a state constitution, December 18, 1776, Richard Caswell was elected the first Governor. Thus, North Carolina was one of the original Thirteen Colonies!

It should not be forgotten that like the State of North Carolina, Caswell County was born during the American Revolution and most of the events in the county between 1777 and 1783 reflect that fact. Winning the war was the main objective of the young state and in the county involved. Many young men were either serving in the militia or in the Continental Line.

Caswell County was called upon in March, 1779, to provide a portion of the 1,500 men to be raised immediately for the defense of North Carolina and the neighboring states faced with the British invasion. Caswell's quota was one captain, one ensign, and forty-three privates.

General Charles Cornwallis left Wilmington on April 25, 1781, marching north. He had failed to capture North Carolina as he had South Carolina and Georgia, but thought he might return to complete that task after taking Virginia. This he was unable to do. He surrendered to General George Washington at Yorktown on October 19, 1781.

The Reverend Hugh McAden, a native of Pennsylvania and a graduate of the College of Princeton, New Jersey, came south on a missionary journey in 1755. On July 29th he crossed the Dan River into North Carolina and preached at one Brandon's in the morning and in the afternoon about twelve miles further he arrived at the home of Solomon Debow on Hico Creek.

Reverend McAden afterwards moved into Duplin County, North Carolina, where he remained until 1768. Then he came back to Orange County and settled on Hico Creek where he became pastor of the Red House and other churches until his death January 20, 1781. He is buried in the Red House Church Cemetery.

Reverend Hugh McAden died a short while before the British troops under General Charles Cornwallis invaded the area, and his grave is said by tradition to have been opened by Cornwallis' troops in search of gold and other valuables. British troops are also credited with the destruction of Reverend McAden's journals, books, and other records and with damage to the church and family property.

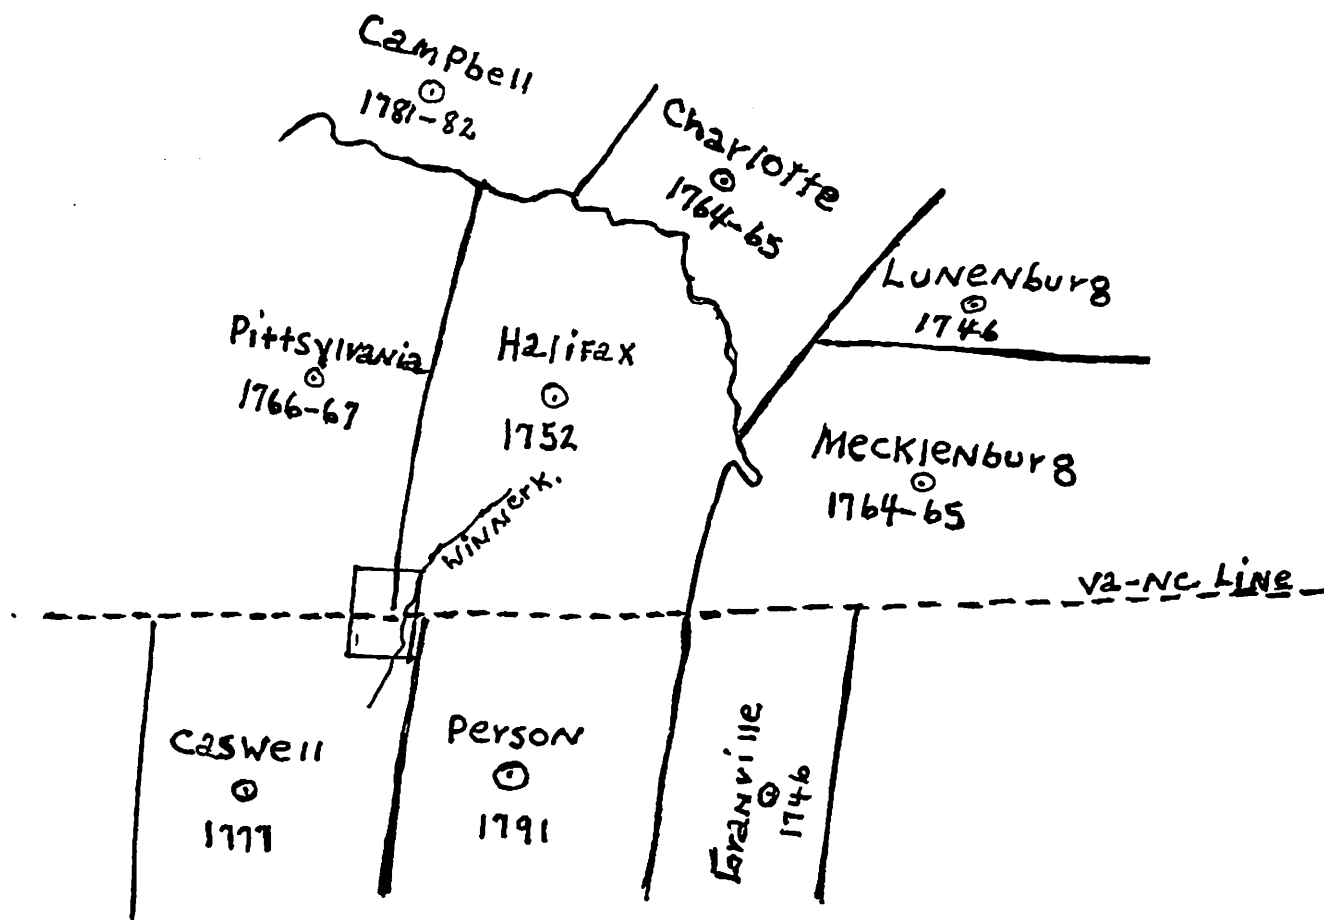

We have established proof that numerous of our families migrated to and settled in Caswell County in North Carolina. Land records, deeds, marriage records, wills, and other related court records with reference to our Yates family ancestors currently repose in the county courthouse at Caswell County.

Also, the Halifax County, Virginia, courthouse abounds with early court records of our Yates' ancestors. This is based on the geographical fact that Halifax and adjoining Virginia counties are so nearly approximate to the North Carolina state line. Of course, this would also include Pittsylvania County and the other adjoining Virginia counties.

It seemed to me from time to time as I traveled over the rolling hills and valleys of the counties that I have mentioned in both Virginia and North Carolina that I could just " simply feel the presence of someone or more present. I felt as though I had been there before on early in my life. I felt as though I was in the presence of my early Yates ancestors. I was riding and walking on the ground where they had been!!"

△ 1 William YATES b abt 1750 d 1808 Wake Co NC m Mary ?? d. 1812

NOTE: (William of Wake speculated by some that wife was Mary Tapp daughter of William Tapp. This is not true. The identity of Mary Yates has never been established) The earliest record

I have not personally verified the following:

"William Yates was a Revolutionary soldier, a Private in the Revolutionary War. He served from 9 May 1781 to 1 August 1781 according to information documented in the Revolutionary Army Accounts, Volume II, Page 47, Folio 4. His service was in the North Carolina Continental Line. His service number was number 60. He was assigned to the 6th Regiment commanded by Col. Gideon Lamb. His company commander's last name was McRees this document can be found in the North Carolina State Archives. Also the record of his will that was probated during the February Term, of the Superior Court of Wake County, 1808 identifies William as a Revolutionary War soldier. This document is in the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of Wake County, NC, in Record Book No. 7, page 313. Also the book Roster of Soldiers from North Carolina in the American Revolution, published by the Gen. Publishing Co. of Baltimore in 1984 verifies this information on pages 85, 91, 193, 194, 225, 232, 357, and 709"

△ 2 William YATES Jr d 1820 m Mary (Mollie) WIMBERLY b. 1766, d. 1856

NOTE: Proven child of William Yeates of Wake Co NC per his will dated 1806 and died 1808. per ancestry.com married in 1787 in Chatham Co NC. Estate probated Feb Term 1821 land = 360 acres. All children's names and some of their marriages as well as William Yates jr's death per his estate records call no 022.503 on file at the NC State Archives in Raleigh, NC. Estate records say William's last residence was 300 acres in Chatham Co NC adjacent to George Williams, David Sauls and others. 120 acre Dower was reserved adjacent to Aelsey Yates. Per Edmund West, comp. Family Data Collection - Deaths [database online] Provo, UT: Ancestry.com, 2001, Mary (Mollie) Wimberly was the sister of Elizabeth Wimbely who married William Yates' brother Matthew and that they were daughters of Lewis and Martha Barbee Wimberly originally of Bertie County NC, later moving to Chatham Co NC and eventually residing in Tenn, according to well researched, but personally unverified information. Mollie is buried (or at least has a marker) at Mt. Pisgah Baptist Church, off hwy 751 in Chatham Co NC. William Jr was called Sr after his father's death in 1808. William Yates found in: North Carolina Muster Rolls, 1814 County: Wake Regiment: Second also confirmed in microfilm, Index to Compiled Service Records of Volunteer Soldiers Who Served During the War of 1812 in Organizations From the State of North Carolina (M250, 5 rolls) located at the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA).

Mily's maiden name appears to be Harrison by the writing and all transcripts say Harrison, however, I have a strong feeling that this is a mis-reading and she was actually a Harward... time will tell. Children per WakeCo NC Census records and Jesse Yates etate records on file at the NC Archives, Raleigh, NC. Children Eliza and Elizabeth are two different people per 1850 Chatham Co NC Census page 212b. Milley is listed as a widow in the 1860 Wake Co NC census page 59b.

 □ m Mary UNKNOWN d. 1812

NOTE: (William of Wake speculated by some that wife was Mary Tapp daughter of William Tapp. This is not true. The identity of Mary Yates has never been established)

I have not personally verified the following:

"William Yates was a Revolutionary soldier, a Private in the Revolutionary War. He served from 9 May 1781 to 1 August 1781 according to information documented in the Revolutionary Army Accounts, Volume II, Page 47, Folio 4. His service was in the North Carolina Continental Line. His service number was number 60. He was assigned to the 6th Regiment commanded by Col. Gideon Lamb. His company commander's last name was McRees this document can be found in the North Carolina State Archives. Also the record of his will that was probated during the February Term, of the Superior Court of Wake County, 1808 identifies William as a Revolutionary War soldier. This document is in the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of Wake County, NC, in Record Book No. 7, page 313. Also the book Roster of Soldiers from North Carolina in the American Revolution, published by the Gen. Publishing Co. of Baltimore in 1984 verifies this information on pages 85, 91, 193, 194, 225, 232, 357, and 709"

NOTE: It is unknown what relationship Margaret Yeats had to William Yeats Sr. She is a beneficiary under his will, but unlike the 12 children of William Yeats her connection is NOT specifically stated. This leads me to conclude that Margaret was a relative, but possibly not his child or grandchild. The DAC lists the children of Burtis and Margaret Yates Upchurch as Abel, Bartlett, William Clinton, Brinkey, John, Alfred, Jubal and Jackson. I don't believe that list is complete.

Listed in the 1840 Wake Co NC census page ? in White Oak township with what appears to be 4 sons and 1 daughter in the home. Margaret and Burtis are between 50 & 60 at this time. Listed as age 70 born in NC in the 1850 Wake Co NC census on page 209b 'next door' to son Gilbert Upchurch and wife Margaret Byrd Upchurch. Margaret has Jackson (24) and Jubil (22) Upchurch in her home. Also next door are Abel (42) and Nancy (32) Upchurch with daughter Adeline (6), another possible son.

His Obituary:

Biblical Recorder: 18 Oct 1845

In this county, on the 10th instant, Mr. Burtis Upchurch, in the 60th year of his age, and for the last 23 years a strict member of the Baptist Church.

Her Obituary:

Biblical Recorder: 29 Oct 1857

In Wake County, N. C., on Sunday, 18th of October, 1857, Mrs. MARGARET UPCHURCH, consort of the late Burris Upchurch, in the 74th year of her age. The deceased had been a member of the Baptist church for 35 years, and was connected at the time of her death with New Salem church in this, Wake county. She leaves five children, besides numerous relatives and friends to mourn their loss; but the poignancy of their grief is somewhat relieved by the consoling reflection, that it was better for her to depart and be with Christ, and that their loss is her eternal gain. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord; yea, from henceforth saith the Spirit, they rest from their labors and their works do follow them."

NOTE: (William of Wake speculated by some that wife was Mary Tapp daughter of William Tapp. This is not true. The identity of Mary Yates has never been established) The earliest record

I have not personally verified the following:

"William Yates was a Revolutionary soldier, a Private in the Revolutionary War. He served from 9 May 1781 to 1 August 1781 according to information documented in the Revolutionary Army Accounts, Volume II, Page 47, Folio 4. His service was in the North Carolina Continental Line. His service number was number 60. He was assigned to the 6th Regiment commanded by Col. Gideon Lamb. His company commander's last name was McRees this document can be found in the North Carolina State Archives. Also the record of his will that was probated during the February Term, of the Superior Court of Wake County, 1808 identifies William as a Revolutionary War soldier. This document is in the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of Wake County, NC, in Record Book No. 7, page 313. Also the book Roster of Soldiers from North Carolina in the American Revolution, published by the Gen. Publishing Co. of Baltimore in 1984 verifies this information on pages 85, 91, 193, 194, 225, 232, 357, and 709"

Ada's death is proven by A transcript of her obit published in the 4/5/1882 Biblical Recorder. The remaining 9 children are from the 1850 Chatham Co NC census page where the family is listed and the name is spelled Council. The family is listed in the 1860 Chatham Co NC census on page Ada's name is spelled Adia. Kimbrol is head. Another unproven story comes from a Council descendent, Theresa Longley of Porterville CA who says "When I went to North Carolina last year I met this women who lives in Pittsboro and her Nephew. Her name is Margaret Roberts and her nephew Steve Kelly. She had some old notes from Elsie Matlock and Kit Sears descendents of Artilla 'Tea' Council. It appears that Kimbro a good looking man for his day had quite the roving eye. Ada his wife, was such a good woman without fault. She was very religious and Kimbrol was an elder at the church. Kimbrol got involved with several women at the church and could not live with the shame of it so he hung himself from a neighbors tree that is located on the present farm of Leo Wilson."

Her Obituary from the Biblical Recorded:

5 APR 1882: (wife of Kimbrel Council)DIED - COUNCIL. -- At the residence of her daughter, near Cary, Wake county, March 25th, Mrs. Ada Council, in her 75th year. She was a resident of Chatham county, where she united with Mt. Pisgah church in early life, and lived a consistent member until her death. She lived a devoted wife, a pious mother, and an earnest and zealous Christian. The church here has lost her, but we believe she is joined to the church triumphant in glory. And while she leaves many friends to mourn, may the Lord of glory with more than a mother's care bind up the broken heart, and console the drooping spirit, of the daughter, who is an efficient and zealous Sunday School teacher, is the prayer of A FRIEND "*△ 4 Elder Dorsey COUNCIL b. Listed in the 1910 Chatham Co NC Census pg 230b. Cary's middle name per his grandmother, Middie Jane Ferrell Yates' will in which she left him her personal property. Lettie Yates purchased the Yates homeplace on present day Futrell Rd from William Andrew Yates in 1924. Her and Cary's property bordered the homeplace on the south east and Joe John Yates' property bordered it on the west and south west. At the time of the sale, the house had been vacant for about 10 years. The oldest part of this house dates back approx 170 - 200 years. According to the Futrells, who knew Casey Yates well, he said all the Yates' of his line lived in this house at one time or another. He said he 'grew up here'. Since his father Thomas Patterson Yates built the 'big house' on Yates Store Rd at New Hope Church rd in 1910 or 1911, it is quite possible Casey lived there. I am still Researching.

Mill History

Yates Mill served Wake County as a water-powered mill for more than 200 years. Of the 70 gristmills that once served Wake County, Yates Mill is the only one still in operating condition.

The water-powered gristmill was an important economic and social center for residents of Wake County from colonial times through the early 1900s. Gristmills provided the important service of grinding corn and wheat into meal and flour.

In rural areas of North Carolina, before towns or crossroad-stores developed, gristmills served as public gathering places for scattered rural populations. Millponds were popular locations for fishing, swimming and picnicking. Yates Millpond is again a popular gathering place, as it once was in the past.

1750–1802, Samuel Pearson

Samuel Pearson, the mill's founder, is thought to have first acquired property in the Wake County area around 1750, when he purchased land from John Monk. The earliest known document related to Pearson's activity around Steep Hill Creek and the land that now surrounds the mill dates to 1756. This document, a request for a land survey, appears to include the land where Samuel's home stood. After this 1756 request, Samuel Pearson officially received the related land grant in 1761. In March 1763, Pearson submitted an entry, claiming ownership of the land where he built the mill. No subsequent documents were issued regarding this piece of land because the British land office ceased operation after the Earl of Granville's death later that year. The start of the American Revolution several years later further delayed the issuance of new land. Action was not taken until 1778, when the new State of North Carolina issued Pearson a survey for the same land he claimed in 1763. This survey is the first known document on file that specifically mentions the mill as already standing.

1802–1819, Simon Pearson

Samuel Pearson owned the mill until his death in 1802. In his will, he divided his land among his four sons, and intended the proceeds of the sale of his personal property to go to his six daughters. His son, Simon Pearson, received 340 acres of land that included the old mill. Because of debts owed to the State Bank of North Carolina, Simon Pearson was forced to sell his land, including the mill, in a sheriff's sale in 1819.

1819–1853, William Boylan

The sheriff sold the property for $3,031 to William Boylan, a prominent Raleigh businessman and director of the State Bank. Boylan established Raleigh's first newspaper, The Raleigh Minerva, by the close of the 19th century; he later also established the Raleigh Advertiser. He also served on the commission to build a new state capital. In order for the mill to continue as a successful business, Boylan made constant changes to the mill building and its operation. Architectural evidence shows that major renovations were likely made to the structure between 1820 and 1850. This most likely came in response to a flood in the early 1800s, which probably destroyed the original mill; however, despite that setback, Boylan had a sawmill operating at the mill by the 1840s.

1853–1863, John Primrose, James Dodd, Thomas Briggs, James Penny

Mr. Boylan owned the mill for 37 years. He sold it to John Primrose, Thomas H. Briggs and James Penny on June 30, 1853. In 1859, James Dodd bought Primrose's share of the mill. Thomas H. Briggs was a prosperous Raleigh businessman who started a building materials business that continues today as Briggs Hardware. Briggs was Raleigh's most influential post-Civil War businessman. Having wisely converted his Confederate currency into silver before the war's conclusion, Briggs was one of the few North Carolinians with money to invest during Reconstruction.

1863–1902, Phares and Roxanna Yates

On March 2, 1863, Penny, Dodd and Briggs sold the mill and 94 surrounding acres to Phares Yates. James Penny's possible involvement in the murder of Hinton Franklin may have prompted the sale. Local legend says Franklin was a northern sympathizer whom Penny reportedly killed for not paying a $700 mill debt. Franklin's widow supposedly told Union troops that were occupying the Raleigh area in 1865 that her husband's death was a result of his political beliefs. Allegedly, the troops tried to burn the mill by setting fire to the entrance porch. Charred wooden beams from the mill's underside are possible evidence of the attempted burn. Court records show that Penny was tried for murder in December 1866 but was found not guilty.

1902–1937, Robert E. Lee (R.E.L.) Yates

1937–1947, Minnie John Yates

Ten years later, Minnie Yates and her son Wilbur sold the mill to the Trojan Sales Company, a subsidiary of A.E. Finley Associates. The title was later transferred to the North Carolina Equipment Company, another subsidiary of A.E. Finley Associates. A.E. Finley built a retreat lodge for use by his family and employees on the millpond. The mill continued operation until the 1950s, when it closed for lack of business.

1963–present, North Carolina State University (NCSU)

North Carolina State University obtained title to the mill and the pond in 1963. The property was part of a 1,000-acre tract that was purchased for use by North Carolina State University Field Laboratory's experimental farms and demonstration fields. Shortly after the University obtained the property, John Daniel Lea – the miller who had worked at the mill since 1898 – operated the mill for the last time as a demonstration.

1989, Yates Mill Associates forms and begins mill restoration

After the mill shut down for business, it began to fall into disrepair. In 1989, the nonprofit group Yates Mill Associates (YMA) formed to preserve and restore the mill. In 1996, after stabilizing the mill building, YMA approached Wake County with a proposal to turn Yates Mill into a county park. Park planning between NC State, YMA, Wake County and the North Carolina Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services began, and the Wake County Board of Commissioners approved the park's master plan in 1997.

1996, Park planning begins

In 2001 N.C. State leased 157 acres to Wake County. In addition, Wake County bought 16 acres upstream and signed a memorandum of understanding with the N.C. Department of Agriculture for the development of hiking trails on 400 acres of land upstream from the pond. Shortly after park planning began, Hurricane Fran breached the dam, drained the millpond and caused the shed to collapse in the fall of 1996. The mill and its pond were badly damaged, but not beyond repair. Restoration of the mill and its grinding machinery was finally finished in 2005.

1999, Development of the 174-acre historic and environmental park begins

Construction of the visitor center for the park began in summer 2003, and was completed in April 2006. Historic Yates Mill County Park opened to the public May 20, 2006. Tours of Yates Mill are available to the public March through November, and corn-grinding demonstrations are offered the third weekend of each month during that time.

Hi! I'm glad to have someone ask about Westin Yates. I really enjoyed researching him and would love to know more. Here's what I have. I hope it doesn't shift and be hard to read. It's a lot of information. Are you a descendent?

James G. Townsend and Andrew L. Yates (1899) murder COLORADO COUNTY FEUD. The Colorado County Feud, a series of gun battles between members of the Townsend family of Columbus, started during the 1898 Colorado County sheriff's race. The election pitted incumbent sheriff Sam Reese against his one time deputy, Larkin Hope. Former state senator Mark Townsend, who directed a political machine that had backed the winning candidate in each of the last nine sheriff's elections, dropped his backing of Reese and endorsed Hope. The move seemingly assured Hope of victory. But on August 3, 1898, Hope was killed by an unknown assailant in downtown Columbus. Immediately, suspicion centered on Jim Coleman, a close friend of Sam Reese's sons, Walter and Herbert. Townsend picked a new candidate, Will Burford, and, with feeling running high against the Reeses, Burford won the election. Less than a year later, on March 16, 1899, Sam Reese was killed in a gun battle on the street near where Hope died. Will Clements, Marion Hope, and Mark Townsend were among those shooting. Stray bullets killed Charles Boehme, a bystander, and wounded a boy named Johnny Williams. Even though the best evidence suggests that Reese had provoked the fight in which he was killed, his sons vowed to get revenge. In five more gunfights-on May 17, 1899, January 15, 1900, July 31, 1900, June 30, 1906, and May 17, 1907-five more men were killed and several others wounded. The dead included Reese's brother Dick, Burford's son Arthur, Will Clements's brother Hiram, and Jim Coleman. Also dead was another innocent bystander, Dick Gant. No one was ever convicted of any of the murders. Those accused included Mark Townsend, Jim Townsend, Step Yates, Will Clements, Walter Reese, Joe Lessing, Frank Burford, and Marion Hope. The Townsends, Reeses, Burfords, Clementses, Hopes, and Lessings were all related to each other, either directly or through marriage.

The feud had a direct effect on the economic wellbeing of Columbus. Boehme, a farmer, had been in town buying supplies when shooting erupted and he was killed. His death persuaded many area farmers to buy their supplies elsewhere. The peaceful citizens of Columbus, trying to end the feuding, asked the city council to reestablish the office of city marshal, which had been abolished some years earlier. For financial reasons, they refused. On August 7, 1906, the citizenry voted to abolish the corporation of the city of Columbus and turn the administration of the town over to the county. The town remained unincorporated for twenty years.

Many of the other participants in the feud died violent, early deaths. Marion Hope was killed in an accident in Gonzales County in 1911. That same year, Will Clements was shot from ambush in Matagorda County by a man with whom he had had an altercation a few days earlier. Jim Townsend was also killed in 1911, in a gun battle with a saloon keeper in Louise. Herbert Reese was killed in 1912, when a gun he was cleaning in his Columbus home accidentally discharged. Walter Reese died as the result of injuries received in an automobile accident in El Paso in 1919. BIBLIOGRAPHY: Houston Post, March 17, 1899, January 17, August 1, 1900. NOTE:Both buried in Osage Cemetery, Colorado Co TX Per Nesbitt Memorial Library Columbus,Texas Colorado County Cemetery Records Burford, Francis Marion; born: Nov 26, 1823; died: Aug 8, 1877; cem: Osage

Son of Jonathan and Euphemia Nancy (Chafin) Burford...called Dick.Burford, Cordelia Ann; born: Jul 25, 1831; died: Nov 26, 1889; cem: Osage Daughter of Thomas T. Shaw...married Francis Marion BurfordFrom the Colorado County Citizen, August 30, 1877:Maj. F. M. Burford was born in North Alabama, November 26th, 1823. Afterwards his father (Dr. J. Burford) moved to West Tennessee, where our brother was raised and educated. He was happily married to Miss C.A. Shaw of Hardeman county, Tennessee, October 25th 1849. In 1851 they came to Texas and settled in Colorado county. On the 1st day of January last he had an attack of cystitis, resulting in ulceration of the bladder, from which he never recovered. Every other remedy failing, as a 1st resort, he was taken to Lampassas Springs, some four weeks before his death. As he still grew worse, an effort was made to get him home, but in vain. He died at Round Rock, at 2:30, A.M., August 8th, 1877. His remains were brought by rail to his late residence, Osage, Colorado county, Texas, where his funeral was preached at 10 A.M., August 11th, to a large and attentive audience; after which his body was buried with Masonic rites, to await the general resurrection of the last day. About thirteen years ago brother Burford professed religion and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, of which he remained an acceptable member (acting as steward most of the time) until his death. He was also a worthy Royal Arch Mason. Much might be said in praise of our deceased friend and brother, but his life is his best eulogy. As a citizen, he was true to his country; as a neighbor, affable and obliging; as a Mason, prompt and true to his obligations; as a Christian, modest and unpretending; as a husband and father, kind and affectionate. His loss will be felt by the community in which he has lived so long. He will be sadly missed by the church and his lodge-- but most of all in the family circle, by his bereaved widow and orphan children. Their loss is truly irreparable; but his honest upright life, his patience and resignation in affliction, and his peaceful death, gives the assurance that he is at rest with God in the home of the blest.

Hi, Phil,

Thank you so much for the package of info you sent me a little while ago. I'm very impressed with the depth and breadth of your research. I hope one day to approach for my particular lines the level of what you've done for yours.

The Jordans (pre-1850) are an elusive bunch. My direct ancestor, Calvin Jordan, 1807-1858 is my brick wall. There exists in the NC Archives a partial family Bible that lists his mother as Mary Jordan, d. 1846. She appears to be the older female in Calvin's household in both the 1830 and 1840 census records for Wake Co. There is a marriage license for a Mary Stevens to Henry Jordan in Johnston Co in 1797, which is not outside the realm of possibility, but further research doesn't make a firm connection. My thinking is trending toward an illegitimacy issue. There is a will for a Henry Jordan d. 1820 who left Polly Jordan $1.00. When I do get to the Archives, I'm slowly reviewing tax lists for Wake and Johnston Co to see if I can establish some connections, but so far, it's turned up nothing!

My dad did a DNA test with inconclusive results, so this may just be one of those brick walls that remains standing. I'm fortunate that many of my other lines extend farther back.

I am reviewing the Jordan research you sent because if I ever break down the wall, the earlier Jordan research will already be there to take the line on back!

My research on my line of Jordans from Calvin on is fairly detailed and extensive. I have some original family letters from the late 1850s that have helped me untangle the threads of the 11 children that Calvin had. Calvin's children settled from NC to Florida, Arkansas, and Kentucky. The story would make a great Lifetime movie. Researching my direct ancestors here in Wake Co has been a pleasure. The family stayed fairly put, had many mentions in newspapers, and were active in community and church affairs. The details that I have unearthed have helped me imagine them as real people with real lives, not just dates and places.

My Yates line research goes back to William Yates d. 1808 in Wake Co. There is a land grant for William Yeats entered in 1783 and dated 1785 for land in Wake. There is controversy about where he came from. One related Yates family researcher was/is living in KY, but I haven't been able to track them down to make contact directly. One of William Yates' sons was William Yates, Jr, who had Eli, who had Carlos, my g-g-grandfather. I have a lot of info on William Yates Sr and Jr and their descendants, not complete, but adequate. It's the going farther in the past that has been problematic.

Thank you again for all you sent. It's gratifying to know that there are active researchers out there who share common interests. Please let me know when you'll be coming this way!

Blessings,
Carla

Thank you again

Hi Staley,

Thanks for letting me know about Ollie Yates' passing. I added him to my Yates tree under his parents. Ollie is of the Matthew Yates line (son of Rev War Soldier William "of Wake" Yates. I have attached the descendant line from Matthew Yates to Ollie.

Basil Manley Yates purchased 191 acres from his father William H Yates in 1840 (Wake Deed book 20 Page 132) adjacent to the Nathan Mills cemetery to the west. This property ran from the lower end of Batchelor Rd south across Green Level West Rd and Castleberry Rd to White Oak Creek. The property went to his children and includes the Yates-Bachelor house (torn down recently), the Williams house (stone wall and turret) and Mal Johnson houses on Green Level Road West (both still standing) and the Yates/Castleberry house (big American Four Square) at the end of Castleberry road. Ollie Yates' family grew up in this house, if I'm not mistaken. Basil Yates' house was on the parcel adjacent to the Mills cemetery and is gone.

Also of note... the William H Yates house is still standing on the west side of White Oak Church Road, though is in danger, I fear.

Hi Staley---

Thank you for information on the passing of O. W. Yates, Jr. This has led me to upgrade his Biofile (now 5 pages) and that of his father (now 6 pages, 11 Items). On Monday I will ask Jay to scan both and to send copies to all who will receive this email. There are several aspects now to be detailed.

These upgraded Biofiles reveal the power of the Biofile System in general. As a highlight I will cite entry 2 for OWY, Sr. which details my February 2, 1980 visit with Paul Mills in his home a few yards south of the Mills Cemetery. This reveals that this Yates family lived cheek by jowl near the Naaman Mills Family and near the Nathan Upchurch, I Family at Green Level and the Moses Upchurch Family that lived just west in Chatham. I'll bet Kim has this all knitted together in her records.
