Hi Roger---

My very good friend Hope has sent me the query about Alexander Upchurch as I am the long time Upchurch researcher. See my website <www.upchurchstory.com>. After some delay I have looked at all of my Alexander Upchurch Biofiles and am not able to provide anything additional on Alexander Upchurch died May 2, 1848. This same query was in my files as of August 31, 1983 from a cooperator in Arkansas it being a puzzle to him as well. I do have considerable information on a Wynns family of Henry County, TN where they intermarried with the Upchurches who arrived about 1805 from Wilkes County, NC via Greenville County, SC. I am not clear from the Bible record as to whether there is more of an indication of the location of the Wynns-Cherry-Barnhill families at some given times. With locations and times and names of specific family members it might be possible to identify more lines of investigation. In any case be assured that any aspect of Upchurch history or heritage interests me.

As to Pitt County, NC, I have had a connection in that my niece Patty Janet McGee married first Bobby Johnson of Ayden and secondly Michael House, DVM and erstwhile Mayor of Ayden, sadly now all deceased leaving me with no connection to the Collard Festival or to Bum's barbeque.

Sending all best regards.

Phil Upchurch

○ EXCERPTS FROM ARTICLE IN THE STATE FEB 1996 PG 16, 17
BY SCOTT SMITH "And the winners are!" - Readers were polled to identify the BEST IN NC OF _____
The excerpt below pertains to: BEST BARBEQUE
CROSSFILE: N.C. BARBEQUE; GUILFORD CO, NC, WILSON CO, NC
PITT CO, NC

BEST BARBECUE

Winners: Stamey's of Greensboro, Parker's of Wilson

Runnersup: Wilber's of Goldsboro, Bee's of Greenville

Stamey's held up western-style honor, while Parker's made sure eastern-style wouldn't take a back seat to anyone. The overall edge went to eastern-style, with three of the top four vote-getters hailing from "Down East." Perhaps the most surprising was that the home of the Barbecue Festival and North Carolina's unofficial barbecue capital, Lexington, didn't produce one of the top finishers. Also, you think more about seafood than barbecue when you're talking about the Outer Banks, but Bubba's in Frisco has obviously impressed some people, as it picked up a handful of votes.

At the risk of starting the third World War, here's what Ed Plog of Morrisville had to offer to the question of who makes the best barbecue in the Tar Heel State: "No one. It's made in Texas."

While we wholeheartedly disagree, Ed is entitled to his opinion.
