CROUCH, DUCK

F176

Duck Crouch was believed to be of the Martin Crouch born in 1799 line, a "close" relative of Martin's grandchildren. Of all the Duck Crouch names coming down from the pioneer families, this is the only one descendants told me is their ancestor. He lived on a farm adjoining James Crouch born in 1823 about 1890-1900. After WWI Jim Harvey lived there. His grandchildren and neighbor's children knew him only as Duck Crouch. We do not now know his wife's name, but the children were

Not one census record listed a Duck Crouch, and even now that we have the children's names, not one of the various Fentress County Census lists these children as one family. Joe's daughter, Dorothy Laytham, recalled most of the facts. Dimmer Crouch and his sister Eva, Carmen Greer, and Marion Crouch's granddaughter Maxine Dishman gave many details and names of others who could give additional facts. Mary Rohana York Upchurch and Al Eugene Abbott have assisted in placing their family's order of age and name corrections.

Hi Bob--I have now had a chance to look into my Kirks/Upchurch records and find that there is a lot we could profitably exchange information on . One of your cousins Wanda Joy Kirks was a wonderful cooperater and supplied much information not much of whcih has been published. I prefer to work via email so contact me at phil@upchurch.com if you feel we can help each other.
Best Wishes~ Phil Upchurch

Hi Robert,

My family keeps getting bigger and bigger, and I couldn't be happier!!!! Thank you for the info, and I will most certainly check out your website. I am still trying to find which of Oscar Kirks' sons is my father, but his family is working on it by having their DNA submitted. Hopefully, one of the 1500 new relatives on Ancestry will lead me to my birth mom, too. It is an arduous task , but if I can find a couple of matches that have the same relatives and not related to the Kirks/Wilson lineage then I will have completed the circle of my birth family. I will keep my new families updated on my findings.
Sincerely,

Robert (Bob) Akin

It's a sign of old times — produce stands using honor system

By DEE LANGSTON
Staff Writer

Last Saturday, I told the kids we were going shopping, and they cleaned themselves up in a hurry, anticipating a trip to Wal-Mart in Knightdale. But when we headed down Smithfield Road, away from U.S. 64, they started asking questions and grumbled when I confessed we weren't going to a regular store.

We turned right on Old Ferrell Road, and the first stop was Akland Orchard. "Who do you pay?" Dorothy asked. Bags of red and yellow apples lined the shelves under a shelter, but no one was in sight.

I showed her the slot for money on the back wall and explained the apples were sold on the honor system. Dorothy wondered if people ever stole the fruit, but orchard owner Jerry Akland said later in a telephone interview that most people are pretty honest.

"They're almost too honest," he said. "They go out of their way to make sure they do it right."

His losses are minimal, he said, adding he would expect people to want to bite into an apple and taste it before they bought any.

Akland's been in business for almost 10 years and considers the orchard a success. "If people like it, it's successful," he said. Apples started coming off the trees in early September and will be available a little while longer. Peaches are his biggest seller, though, available from the first of June until the end of August.

Although Akland sells his apples picked and bagged, the peaches are sometimes offered on a "pick your own" basis.

"It's harder for us because we have delicious apples that were so juicy that Rob suggested we never buy apples at the grocery store again. Apples this fresh made everyone forget all about Wal-Mart.

Our next stop was on Mailman Road, where William Pope has a "pick your own" vegetable business. A tobacco farmer who plans to retire this year, Pope has no intention of stopping working.

Although he's sold produce this way for seven or eight years, this year wasn't too successful, he said. "I didn't advertise much."

Next summer, he hopes to sell butter beans, peas, tomatoes, okra and pumpkins. In the past, he has sold and donated pumpkins to the

to have an extra person around to tell people where to pick," he said. "It's kind of fun, though. People seem to like it."

We purchased a half-bushel of golden local schools. "We had a field close to Knightdale Elementary School and would let them come out and pick some," he said.

Children seem to make him smile and, although he didn't have any produce for us, he did introduce us to his dog, Trick, and take us to see his goats. The goats are being raised for milk and meat and he has about 20 so far. "It gives me something to do," he said. "I'm not one to just sit down."

A drive down Rolesville Road brought us to the home of Phillip Moody, another semiretired tobacco grower.

Moody sells sweet potatoes from a cart near the road and operates on the honor system. Boxes are $3 and $5. Customers select the size box they want and put the money in a slot in a locked box.

Moody doesn't worry about anyone stealing his sweet potatoes. "I couldn't ask for it to work any taken any from me," he said.

He first sold watermelons on the honor system. "It worked so well I decided to try it for sweet potatoes," he said, adding that many of his customers buy from him on a regular basis.

I bought a half bushel of sweet potatoes, even though the kids said they didn't like them. They'll probably change their minds when I bake them a sweet potato pie.

The last stop was Wilder's Nursery on First Avenue, where grapes were hanging in abundance. If you plan to go, do it soon because owner Billy Wilder said they won't last much longer. The Black Regal grapes are the sweetest, but other varieties, such as the Carlos, Higgins and Frye are also available got a real nice note from a lady thanking us for fixing it so people could pick grapes."

Most people seem to be fairly honest, although someone did steal the cash box one night, he admitted. "I think they were disappointed when they found out how little money was in there."

Tyrone Debnam, a member of the N.C. Nurseryman's Association, helps out at the nursery. He sees its system as successful. "It really has done well. There really are some honest people here," he said.

Rob described the grapes as delicious, sweet and juicy, although we didn't actually pay to pick. We are going back, though, and this time we'll pay, just as soon as this story's complete.

and almost as good.

The grapes are also sold on an honor system. Buckets are stacked by a pole near the nursery's office, and a box is left to leave the payment in. "Just eating" is a dollar, and a container costs $3.

The nursery has sold grapes for several years on a "pick your own" basis but not until now on the honor system. People seem to enjoy the convenience, Wilder said. "We

Local growers find public appreciates, rewards their trust

Left, the Langston kids check out the apples at Akland's Orchard, located on Old Faison Road, near Knightdale. Above, William Pope greets some of the goats he raises for meat and milk. Pope plans to sell butter beans, peas, tomatoes, okra and pumpkins at his "pick your own" field next summer.

The numerous places in eastern Wake County that allow people to "pick their own" produce give kids and others a chance to get immersed in what they eat. Shown left, Rob Langston gathers grapes at Wilder's Nursery in Knightdale. Below, Phillip Moody, a semi-retired tobacco grower, sells sweet potatoes near his home off Rolesville Road. Two sizes of boxes are available, whether Moody is around to help or not; customers can leave their payment in a cash box.
