② ANSON JOHN CRITCHER

○ See It's 9 AUG 2000 Shirley Marie Lamb D & M per an article on the CRITCHER family. It partially duplicates information already on hand. The 7 Pg article is entitled Mortimer Manly Critcher - A Biographical Sketch and was written 30 MAY 1940 by his dau nee MYRTLE CRITCHER

I. Anson Critcher¹ d abt 1880 (bur - on Family Plantation, Granville Co, NC) md (1st) Phoebe Mallory¹; md (2nd) Talitha Barnett². Anson was a wealthy land/slave owner, had a Townhouse in Oxford, NC & a plantation here 5 miles from Oxford. was Sheriff of Granville Co, NC for many years. This article shows 8 children by 1st mrg but other info indicates possibly 9. There were 6 children of the 2nd mrg including the youngest MORTIMER MANLY CRITCHER "MONNIE", the subject of this article. His FAT ANSON¹ had a plantation, a drug store, sawmill & tannery

A. MORTIMER MANLY CRITCHER was born in Darlington Co, SC as of 30 MAY 1940 & had 10 children (6F, 4M) & 17 GC. Grew up in Granville Co, NC from birth 12 JAN 1863 - left area 1880 & moved to Franklin Co, NC where in 1887 he md MRS LULA KING CREEK MORE b 1 FEB 1870 (Franklin Co, NC) Coldest of 7 children - 5F, 2M. dau of JOSEPH GORDON CREEK MORE & ANN (GAT) CREEK MORE. In 1897 he moved to Williamson Co, NC then about 1907 moved to Darlington Co, SC. He had a great reputation for making pork barbecue & prepared the dinner given in 1906 at Lanes, SC in honor of the late BENJAMIN R. TILMAN. See article for names of the 10 children of "Monnie" + names of distant CRITCHER relatives of the 1900's

① MORTIMER MANLY CRITCHER

○ See the 9 AUG 2000 Shirley Marie Lamb D R M per an article on the CRITCHER family. It partially duplicates information already on hand. The 7 Pg article is entitled Mortimer Manly Critcher - A Biographical Sketch and was written 30 MAY 1940 by his¹ dau nee MYRTLE CRITCHER

I. Anson Critcher d abt 1880 (bur - on Family Plantation, Granville Co, NC) md (1st) Phoebe Mallory¹; md (2nd) Talitha Bennett². Anson was a wealthy land/slave owner, had a Townhouse in Oxford, NC & a plantation here 5 miles from Oxford. was Sheriff of Granville Co, NC for many years. This article shows 8 children by 1st mrg but other info indicates possibly 9. There were 6 children of the 2nd mrg including the youngest MORTIMER MANLY CRITCHER "MONNIE", the subject of this article. His FAT ANSON had a plantation, a drug store, sawmill & tannery

MORTIMER MANLY CRITCHER
& Biographical Sketch

Mortimer Manly Critcher is the son of Anson Critcher and Tabitha (Barnett) Critcher. He was born at Oxford, North Carolina, January 12, 1863. "Monnie" (as he is called by his family and boyhood friends) Critcher is the youngest of a family of 14 children. His father was married twice. His first wife was Phoebe Mallory, and by her he had 8 children, the names of which were as follows:

Joseph, William, John Charles, Lucy Ann, Rebecca Jane, Elizabeth.

By his 2nd wife, Tabitha Barnett, he had Emma, Robert, Roger, Webb, Patty, and Mortimer. Mortimer spent his early boyhood at Oxford. ~~His father~~ was a man of considerable property and was engaged in various lines of business, among which was ~~farming, drug store, sawmilling, tannery.~~ ^{farming, drug store, sawmilling, tannery.} In addition, he ~~was Sheriff of Granville County for many~~ ^{was Sheriff of Granville County for many} years. Anson Critcher was a big landowner before the Civil War, and had many slaves.

Mortimer came up during the reconstruction period. That never to be forgotten period suffered by the people of the South after the crippling blows from the invading army had leveled everything in the South. He remembers well, many of his father's ex-slaves; many of whom never left their master while he lived, nor ever considered themselves emancipated. The social status of Negro slaves and ex-slaves, in this section of the country, as well as elsewhere in the South, depended upon the social and economic status of their white masters. A gentleman planter who owned a large number of slaves, imparted to his Negroes considerably more social prestige than that enjoyed by the slaves of a planter whose wealth permitted only a few. An only slave owned by a poor master was social trash among his own color. Impecunious whites are still referred to as "po' white trash." "Po' buckra" is the term more commonly used in designating this class in the State of South Carolina.

Some Negroes continue to bear the names of the families owning their forbears, but many more have assumed surnames that happened to appeal to them. There are white families today that take pride in the number of Negroes bearing their names, regarding it as an indication of the families' wealth.

Among Mortimer's earliest recollections is the mutual affection existing between himself and his father's ex-slaves, the house servants in particular, among which the most salient in his memory are: Dolly, the cook; Friday, the coachman and house boy; Big Mary, the house maid; and Little Mary, the nurse or Mammy. Dolly and Friday remained in the employ of Mortimer's mother, as her personal servants, as long as she kept house after the war.

~~The Catches lived at their town house in Oxford,~~ a part of the year, ~~and the other part they spent at their plantation house~~ ^{which was situated} ~~about five miles from Oxford.~~

~~It was at this large, old-time country house~~ that Mortimer loved to go as a boy, and here he played many boyish pranks, aided and abetted by the older brothers and the servants.

His father was a strict Presbyterian, of Scotch descent. He was a God-fearing man, upright and honorable in all his dealings, and brought his family up under the strictest discipline. Mortimer's sister Emma, used to tell a little story, which will serve for an illustration.

Once while on vacation from college in Raleigh, she was entertaining her little brother by playing the piano for him. On this particular evening, she and "Monnie" were in the parlor, while their parents were reading in an adjoining room. The old gentleman was hard of hearing. He could hear the music, but there was something else which he couldn't quite figure out. He turned to his wife and said, "Dear, it seems that there is a mighty bumping and thumping going on somewhere." "Oh," said she, with the utmost gravity, "it's nothing except the children playing. Continue with your reading." She knew better than to expose the fact that the "bumping" was Monnie's dancing to his sister's music, this being strictly against his father's religious principles.

Another little story which his mother used to love to tell was the following:

It seems that one of her favorite formulas for colds and sore throat was a mixture of vinegar, honey, black pepper and butter, made into a syrup. A spoonful of this brew was considered very effective; it was also very tasty. One night she had prepared this remedy to be taken before going to bed, and had set it near the fireplace to keep warm. On this particular occasion the minister was a guest in the house. It seemed that the prayers were unusually long when the preacher was present. Anyway, the little boy, Monnie, got very tired kneeling down, but being nearest to the dish of syrup, and everyone else having their backs turned as they knelt in prayer, the temptation was more than he could bear, so he thought he'd just taste it. He tasted several times. Surreptitiously at first, but becoming bolder with each taste. And till the company knelt. So, when prayers were finally over, and his mother turned to get the dish of syrup, lo! it had completely disappeared. There were traces of it still around the mouth of the culprit.

Mortimer went to school at Oxford as a boy, among his teachers and school mates were.....? He did not have the advantages which some of his brothers and sisters had who came up before the war. His father died when Mortimer was 17 years old, and he is buried in the family burying ground on the ancestral plantation near Oxford. After the decease of his father the boy had to make his own living. He went to work with the realization that much had been accomplished by the stimulus of the empty purse, and during his life he became very successful.

In a few years he went to Franklin County where he engaged in the culture of tobacco. In 1886, while sitting at his barn one night, where he was curing tobacco, and leaning against a rail or "snake fence", he said he heard a noise that sounded like the fence was falling. He looked and the lantern which was hanging by the barn, was swaying violently. There was no wind stirring at all, and for a time he was very mystified, but it soon dawned upon him what it was. News traveled slowly in those days, but in a few days he read an account of the terrible disaster in Charleston, S. C., caused by the earthquake.

In 1887 he married Miss Lula Creekmere, daughter of Josiah Gordon Creekmere and Ann(Gay) Creekmere, of Franklin County, N. C. Mrs. Critcher was born February 1, 1870, in Franklin County, N. C. She is the eldest of seven children, 5 girls and 2 boys.

In 1897 Mortimer Critcher moved with his family to Williamston, N. C. where he continued farming, chiefly the culture of tobacco, for about 10 years. In 1902 he went into the mercantile business in Williamston. He soon sold this business, however, and moved to Darlington County, S. C. Mortimer Critcher has, all his life, dealt in tobacco in some way, either growing it, or buying it for speculation.

He has always had a great love for blooded stock of all kinds, and always had plenty of it on his place. In his younger days he was very fond of horses and the races, and has owned at one time some very fine specimens. Two of his horses held local track records. Before his eye sight became impaired he was quite a Nimrod, and loved to fish. He always kept fine dogs. Chiefly pointers, setters, and sometimes a pack of hounds. The latter of the breed having large, drooping ears, and voice of characteristic tone.

The writer feels that the propensity for animals is worth much in the tracing of the subject's character.

He had wonderful skill in barbecuing, that accomplishment which is now almost a lost art. It is a singular fact that all other industries except this have improved. The following is method:

When he once puts down his pigs, flesh side down, over the pit of coals, they are never turned until the drying of the skin shows that they are nearly done, and then when turned the flesh is nicely browned and cracked open in deep fissures, so that when the hot gravy of butter, vinegar and black pepper is poured on it, penetrates to the bone - a far superior mode to frequently turning and basting. To such lucious feasts his friends were bidden by the dozens. These feasts, which have been compared to the "fiestas" in Mexico, have been an institution in his home, principally on the 4th of July, for a period of at least 40 years or more. They also served as "round-ups" for the scattered members of the family. It is a matter of pride with him that he was appointed chairman of the committee to prepare the barbecue given at Lamar, S. C. in 1906, in honor of the late Benjamin R. Tillman.

Mr. Critcher is a democrat. While always interested in politics, he has never taken active part in them. ~~He belongs to the Order of Ancient Free and~~

~~and~~ He held his ~~membership in the Skewatek Lodge, No. 111, in~~ ~~part of~~ Martin County, North Carolina. Among his honored and beloved friends at Williamston were Dr. William Harrell and the Honorable Harry M. Stubbs. In Darlington County, South Carolina, perhaps his most intimate personal friends were the late Dr. Dudley Harrell and Mr. William DeWitte.

Mr Critcher is an attentive observer of nature and society. He has always been a diligent reader.

In appearance, Mortimer M. Critcher has more than average attraction. He is possessed of a magnificent physique, being 6 ft. in height, and weighs 225 lbs. Now, at the advanced age of 78, he is as erect as a soldier. A noble head, covered with luxuriant white hair, is borne proudly aloft. His eyes, gray, with dark eyelashes, expressing thoughtfulness. His forehead high and expansive, his nose of the Roman type, his entire countenance indicating courage and unyielding firmness of purpose, and invincible will-power. His manners are commanding.

The Negroes on the plantation used to have an expression, born of experience, which they employed to strike consternation in the hearts of any who lagged behind in his duties in the fields. The exclamation, "Ball o' fire," was the code message which meant "the Cap'n is coming." The code of honor among the darkies in the South is, seemingly, to shield the shirker and retard justice toward the transgressor.

Mortimer M and Roger S. Critcher (Williamston, N.C.) are the only surviving members of Anson Critcher's family. Mr. Robert G. Critcher of Oxford, N.C.

and Dr. Charles Edward Critcher of New Church, Virginia, are relatives. The late Judge John Critcher, Congressman from Virginia, and delegate to the Secession Convention in Washington, was also a relative.

Mr. and Mrs. Critcher are the parents of 10 children, 6 girls and 4 boys. They have 17 grand children. The names of their children, in their chronological order are as follows:

Myrtle (Mrs. J. O. Berry, Columbia, S. C.; Emma (Mrs. Isaac E. Wynne), Charlotte, N. C.; Minnie, called "Bounce" (Mrs. J. Ivey Hill), Timmonsville, S. C.;
 R. Howard, Florence, S. C.; Mary Lee, deceased; Harry S., Florence, S. C.;
 Lula King, deceased; Wheeler M. Darlington, S. C.; Ruth (Mrs. Tom Aldridge), Charlotte, N. C.; Jacob D. Summerton, S. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Critcher reside in Darlington County, South Carolina.
