Pals team together for talent show

By MARTY COWARD
Managing Editor

Poet/author Claudio Niedworok and Lizard Lick "Mayor" Charles Wood are at it again. The two friends and accomplices always seem to have a dozen irons in the fire, and the one that's hot now is a second annual talent show.

Wood's WLIZ studio and Niedworok's "CAPE of the Arts" are joining forces to present "Talent II" on Oct. 2 at Wendell Elementary School. Any local talents of any kind are welcome to audition in September at the Lizard Lick "town hall." Call 365-6648 for more information.

Niedworok sees "Talent II" as a "means to make people aware of the arts and of self-expression in the arts."

He should know something of that, having performed on Broadway, in the Virgin Islands and throughout North Carolina. But that's only the tip of the iceberg.

Born in Germany and raised in South Africa, Niedworok: was a gourmet chef in the Black Forest of West Germany; performed on radio; appeared in a soap commercial on television; served as the private chef of the Canadian band, Rush; starred in a legal aid commercial for ABC-TV; was artistic director of "Artoberfest" in Raleigh; has done photography for Michael Keaton and Marcel Marceau; exhibited his drawings, paintings and photos at Theatre In The Park's aids benefit; and was the featured performer in the opening ceremonies for the International Festival of Raleigh.

And if that weren't enough, he has over 500 books and 3,000 recordings in international circulation, including "Pilgrims on the Pathway."

Recently, Niedworok staged "Seafarers" with musician David Kovach at N.C. State's Thompson Theatre. He said the five-night run was a critical success and "highly acclaimed."

The stories in "Seafarers" were drawn from Niedworok's experiences during five years of sailing the Caribbean. "I try to live most of what I write and this was written at sea, living with sea dogs instead of sitting behind a desk," he said. "The audience becomes personally and emotionally connected to this performance."

He has also staged "Seafarers" at Broadway's Bluestar Theater and was recently asked to consider performing the one-man show in Chapel Hill.

Niedworok and Wood, who operates a Lizard Lick garage, met a few years ago when "the mayor" and his son went to Apex to pick up Niedworok's motorcycle for repairs. Wood heard a tape of some of his poems and invited him to open the Eastern Carolina Singing Convention that year.

"I saw something very unusual; he's a voice and a talent," said Wood. "That started a good relationship ... all because a motorcycle wouldn't run."

For his part in "Talent II," Niedworok will serve as director and perform "Midnight Walker." Kovach, whom Niedworok calls a "master musician," will accompany the local performers.

"We hope to offer exposure and bring others under the umbrella of talents," he added. "That way, people will sit up and take notice."

With Niedworok, it's hard not to.
