① Zebulon Record THUR 14 MAR 1996 Zebulon, NC

Eastern Wake County is an area that people have called home for more than 300 years.

Historians believe the Tuscarora Indians lived in the Marks Creek area, east of Knightdale, at the dawn of the 18th century. Food and wildlife were plentiful here. In fact, legend has it that panthers lived along the Neuse River at that time.

One of the first white men to pass through this area was English explorer John Lawson, who followed the river into the present-day Wake County. English settlers followed in his wake; homesteads began popping up in this area around 1740.

EDGAR BARDEE

Work began on the city of Raleigh and the state capital in the late part of the 1700s. By that time, several small communities had sprung up in eastern Wake County. Three — Knightdale, Wendell and Zebulon — eventually became towns, while others — Eagle Rock and Shotwell — remain small communities. Why some grew and some did not can be attributed to some degree to the Raleigh-Pamlico railroad, which was built around 1905. The railway primarily carried lumber and cotton products, but it also attracted new businesses and citizens to the area.

The heritage of eastern Wake County has been, and continues to be, tied closely to tobacco, but today the area hosts several industries that employ more people than the gold leaf. We still enjoy a slow pace of life here.

Who we are

The eastern Wake route of the railroad tracks resulted from the work of several people, including Henry Haywood Knight, commonly regarded as the father of Knightdale.

Knight, whose family owned much of the land in what is now Knightdale, was a community leader at the turn of the century. He and others arranged for the construction of the first Knightdale school, a one-room building on First Avenue, around 1900.

He is thought to have been instrumental in getting the railroad to put its tracks through Knightdale. The depot was built on land donated by Knight.

The land around the depot grew into a business district, which formed the basis of the town, chartered by the state of North Carolina March 9, 1927.

The town of Wendell grew out of the seed that was the one-room Rhodes School House, which was built in the days before the American Civil War, or the "War Between the States" as many in this area still call the conflict. Named for landowner Ambrose Rhodes, the school was renamed Wendell Preparatory School around 1890 in honor of the poet Oliver Wendell Holmes, a favorite of then-Schoolmaster M.A. Griffin.

Shortly afterward, a Wendell post office opened in a store belonging to J.R. Nowell. Restored by the Wendell Historical Society, the original post office is currently located on Fourth Street.

The town of Wendell was incorporated March 6, 1903.

One of the town's first major establishments came from the efforts of R.B. Whitley, C.Z. Todd, Amos Dean and others, who formed the Bank of Wendell in 1907. Whitley served as the bank's president until his death in 1944. He also was a town official and a state legislator at different times.

The town of Zebulon also resulted from businessmen working together. Falconer Arendell of Wakefield and Edgar Barbee of Barclaysville founded the Zebulon Co. in 1906 and purchased 90 acres that served as the heart of the new town.

With development in full swing, the N.C. General Assembly passed an act the following year — Feb. 16, 1907 — which incorporated the town. The original boundaries consisted of 297 acres. The town has grown to cover more than 3,600 acres.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Z. Nowell of Wendell. Parents of the bridegroom are Noble Clark Stewart of Mill City, Ore., and the late Nancy Lee Thoma.

The bride's grandparents are the late Robert Marcus and Zelma Hocutt Nowell, Luther Culbreth Eatman, and Olif B. and Maybelle Eatman Creech, all formerly of Wendell.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, the bride wore a gown of white-on-white cotton brocade with a fitted bodice that ended in points at the waist. The tucked stole collar formed the sleeves and came to a point at the center front.

Her veil was attached to a crown of pearls. She carried a bouquet of calla lilies, red and white roses, baby's breath, and ivy.

She was attended by her sisters, Kelly N. Scott and Kathryn G.

The bride is a graduate of Smithfield-Selma Senior High School, the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill, and received her master's degree in music from California State University at Los Angeles. She teaches music and Spanish at Smithfield Elementary School in Smithfield.

Profile on Edna (U) Brandi. You will note that Item ① is what you gave me over the phone and that Item ② is what Jim sent to me

Enclosed is a copy of my Master outline for the family of Courtney U. He was the Grandfather of Mary (U) Blessee. The first two sheets cover Courtney, his children & grandchildren. The descendants (if any/ if known) are covered in continuation sections as indicated by the highlighted number on the left hand side of the page. These continuation sections appear after the pink sheet.

I was pleased to learn that the Mary (U) Blessee family lived next door to you in the 1955 - 1995 era and that you were close friends. If you spot any errors on the master outline or think of any new information we can add to make this record more complete I would be pleased to have the input. If there are members of this family with whom I could correspond, I would be more than glad to do so.

It is very generous of you to offer to provide me with newspaper clippings where the name Upchurch appears. Jim was very faithful in doing this for me and now that he is gone I will miss our exchanges of letters which were brought about as a result of the clippings.

We returned home to numerous activities. The most pressing was to finish planting corn and soybeans which was completed on 28 MAY. We now need a shower and I must be leaving right because as I write this at 6:30 AM it is gently raining. A quarter inch would be a real blessing to get the crops up.

Today we are having some family activities. Our daughter Delra Beth & her two children spent the night with us. Her husband is away on Boy Scout business. This afternoon we go to our son Barry's house to have a cook-out with his family.

I hope this finds you well. It would be a pleasure to hear from you when you have time.

Sincerely yours
(C) Phil Upchurch

- C. See Notes of Clyde's call to RYM on 18 NOV 1998 in which he reports (to clarify) that a real name of Vaughn Nowell was Vaughn Adams. He was the son of Elizabeth Canady [2nd wife of Jerry] and thus a stepson of Jerry. This stepson was very much a part of Jerry's family & he and his son took over the Nowell Furniture Store in Cary originally run by Jerry.

Former missionary recalls 'the Dark Continent'

by Douglas Hamm

Vivian Nowell has all of the comforts and luxuries she needs in her spacious home on Poole Road in Wendell.

But she also knows the other side of life, where there are no conveniences and living can be a daily battle for survival.

The 79-year-old Ms. Nowell served as a missionary in Africa from 1939 until her retirement in 1960, working deep in the bush country of Nigeria.

Her eyesight is failing, but the perky Ms. Nowell can recite the memories and experiences of her missionary work in amazing detail.

After graduating from Wendell High School in 1922, Ms. Nowell worked in various clerical jobs in Raleigh before attending the Women's Missionary Union Training School in Louisville, Ky., for two years in the mid-1930s.

She was appointed a missionary to Africa at a ceremony in Richmond, Va., in 1938, and she was soon called to Nigeria.

"I had thought about doing social work in America," said Ms. Nowell. "But a lot of people were doing social work in America. Not many people had the opportunity to go and work in Africa."

Her first assignment for the Nigerian Baptist Mission was as a bookkeeper-secretary at the Ogbomoso Baptist Hospital.

"Working in the office didn't satisfy me," said Ms. Nowell. "I wanted to work with the people."

Ms. Nowell's wish was answered and she was transferred to Bogosha, which is located deep in the bush country, approximately 175 miles from the Nigerian capital and shipping port of Lagos.

"We were 50 miles from the nearest small store where you could buy supplies," said Ms. Nowell. "We were limited to what we could eat but we always had enough."

The living conditions were primitive, and one of Ms. Nowell's jobs was teaching the women proper cooking hygiene.

"It was very difficult for them to stay healthy," she said. "They used big cooking pots over something like charcoal, but they weren't accustomed to cleaning."

"I taught them how to boil water so they wouldn't get worms. And I got them to take their food up off the ground onto a table."

"They didn't have utensils to eat with and they ate with their hands. We made spoons out of tin cans and other different things that they could use."

Obviously, the back country of Nigeria was a far cry from cozy Wendell, and Ms. Nowell had some anxious moments.

"I remember awaking in the middle of the night to all of this drumming," said Ms. Nowell. "I thought the Africans were coming to get us. It turned out the drumming was for a wedding. After awhile, you learned to interpret the drumming. Sometimes the drumming was happy, and other times it was sad."

There were lots of hairy, creepy critters to contend with, also.

"We didn't have screens on the homes, and for some reason there weren't many flies," said Ms. Nowell. "We did have to sleep under mosquito nets. We always had lizards climbing up and down the walls but they ate the mosquitoes."

After serving a three-year stint overseas, all missionaries were sent back to the United States for one year. Ms. Nowell noted the return to America was much-needed after three years in the jungle, totally isolated from civilization as most Americans know it.

On her first trip back to the United States, Ms. Nowell encountered another harrowing experience.

"It was during World War II, and we had to cross the Atlantic," said Ms. Nowell. "There were sunken ships all over the ocean, and we traveled in a military convoy."

"We were attacked once, but the ships zigged and zagged out of the way, and of course they didn't get us."

"The mission children prayed for us for five weeks so we could cross safely. When we reached America we cabled them saying we had arrived safely. The children were so happy because they could quit praying for us."

Ms. Nowell was transferred to the mission in Abeokuta, Nigeria, in 1944. Abeokuta is only 35 miles from Lagos, and the living conditions were better than in Bogosha.

In Abeokuta, Ms. Nowell lived at a boarding school for girls, and did clerical work. She also taught the girls basic skills such as sewing.

After working in Abeokuta for a pair of three-year stints, Ms. Nowell was relocated to Lagos where she worked with missionaries who were either coming from or going to the bush.

She met the missionaries at the airport or harbor, and prepared them for their tour of duty in the bush. She also lent an ear to returning missionaries who had completed a tour of duty.

"The missionaries stayed at my home before they left for America or went into the bush," Ms. Nowell said. "I enjoyed that part of my work as much as the first part."

"We played table games, but mostly sat and talked. Some of the missionaries hadn't spoken to a white person for five or six months, and they needed companionship. Part of my job was to sit and listen to them talk."

Ms. Nowell said it was important to provide the missionaries with a pleasant atmosphere.

"Everything was very ugly over there," said Ms. Nowell. "If you don't have some beauty in a place like that you lose your balance."

"The missionaries in Africa were of a very high caliber. They kept signs of American life in the homes, and always celebrated holidays like the Fourth of July."

Ms. Nowell retired from the mission in 1960, just before Nigeria obtained its independence from Great Britain.

After completing her missionary duties, Ms. Nowell worked for the Women's Baptist Missionary Union office in Raleigh before retiring in 1974.

She brought home fond memories of the Africans she lived and worked with for over two decades.

"The Africans were very good people and very polite," said Ms. Nowell. "But after the Nigerian men were enlisted into World War II, they learned some things from white men and weren't as polite."

"They appreciated our help, but the integration that was happening in America also spread to Africa. They seemed to change a little bit after that."

Ms. Nowell isn't sorry she devoted so much of her life to missionary work.

"It was the happiest time of my life really," said Ms. Nowell. "You always had a house and plenty of money, and you were working for people and the Lord. I don't have any regrets."

'I remember awaking in the middle of the night to all of this drumming. I thought the Africans were coming to get us. It turned out the drumming was for a wedding. After awhile, you learned to interpret the drumming. Sometimes the drumming was happy, and other times it was sad.'

Nowell's Furniture has come a long way since 1905, when William McKee Nowell began selling furniture from a wagon on South Wilmington Street in Raleigh.

This weekend the store will celebrate its 80th year of business; 59 years in Raleigh, 21 in Cary at its current location on East Chatham Street.

Later in 1905, William Nowell moved into a store at 115 S. Wilmington Street, which operated until 1964. That year his son, Jerry J. Nowell, and Jerry's wife, Elizabeth, bought out the rest of the family and moved the store to Cary, where William had been a resident since 1927. Five years later, they moved their family there, too.

Jerry Nowell died last year, but Mrs. Nowell has stayed active in the business. It is now co-managed by the Nowells' three children, Vaughan Adams, Jerry J. Nowell Jr. and Sara Nowell.

All three have been working at the store for as long as they can remember.

"The children all started dusting furniture as soon as they could hold a dustcloth," Mrs. Nowell said.

Now the whole family pitches in to make the store a success.

Says Jerry J. Jr., "People ask me what my duties are here, and I say, 'Whatever needs to be done.'"

Mrs. Nowell laughs, "If things go well we all take the credit. If things go bad we don't know who did it."

The store traditionally carried a variety of furniture styles, but about 15 years ago they decided to sell just modern furniture, a style the whole family liked.

"We tried to be everything to everybody, and we were small and we couldn't do it," Mrs. Nowell said. "So we thought the best thing to do was to specialize."

The store features mainly Danish imports in case good, or non-upholstered items. Upholstered items come mainly from domestic companies. The store also does special orders.

Orders from Denmark can take anywhere from six weeks to four months, according to Mrs. Nowell. The furniture is shipped to Wilmington in a 40-cubic-foot crate, which she said was about the size of a railroad car.

Mrs. Nowell and her daughter Sara said they have seen business at the store increase as Cary's growth has continued.

"We look back several years, we had time to have more leisure here," Mrs. Nowell said.

"It used to be I could get finished, but I can't anymore," Sara added. "I barely have time for lunch."

But both agreed that they enjoyed being busy, and enjoyed the feeling of camaraderie they get from working in a family business.

"It's always given me a real sense of belonging," Sara said. "I have a very, very strong sense of family."

"You have a feeling of family pride, a sense of accomplishment," Mrs. Nowell said.

Sara added, "You know when you leave it's in good hands, because it's a family member's."

The family will celebrate its anniversary this Saturday with an open house and special sale. Customers — or just spectators — can partake of a Scandinavian repast of open-face sandwiches of a variety of gourmet meats, a cheese and fruit plate, and Danish cookies.

"We're getting so much food we want to make sure people come and try it," Sara said.

The store will also have specials, and shoppers can register to win prizes.

But when the party is over, the Nowell family will go back to work at the making their business one of the best around — a tradition they hope will continue. Vaughan Adams' two daughters are too young to decide yet whether they will take up the family business.
