Powers returns home from California

By CHRYSTAL GUY
Record staff writer

Recent travelers on West Gannon Avenue may have noticed a yellow ribbon around a tree in the front yard of the V.C. Powers house.

The ribbon was tied by neighbor Joe Chamblee in celebration of the return next month of Cornell Powers to Raleigh from San Francisco, Calif.

On Feb. 12 Cabell Powers slipped on a scatter rug and broke her leg.

Two weeks later her husband of 45 years, Vernon C. Powers, died suddenly while watching a ball game on television.

Distraught and temporarily disabled, Mrs. Powers needed help settling financial affairs and just getting around the house. But her only child, Cornell, was more than 2,000 miles away in San Diego, Calif.

Mrs. Powers' only daughter-in-law, Lou, came to Zebulon to take care of Mrs. Powers temporarily. The two began to send letters to naval administrative commanders in California and Virginia requesting that Cornell be allowed to move back to North Carolina.

After Mrs. Powers was directed to correspond with naval commanders in Arlington, Va., she received word that an answer would arrive within "two weeks" of that communication. Precisely two weeks later Mrs. Powers received a letter granting permission for her son to be reassigned to the Navy recruiting office in Raleigh.

Formerly Cornell had served as director of pattern making. He has been a "Navy man" for 17 years.

Mrs. Powers is expecting her son home during the first week of June when he will drive from San Francisco, Calif., with the family dog. During the interim Cornell's wife Lou will await her husband's arrival with Mrs. Powers.

"I just don't know what I would have done without Lou," said Mrs. Powers.
