LILY TZOURIS
BATCHELOR FAMILY
DNA

Hi Brenda----

Your input re Lily Batchelor leads me to comment and you can decide how to proceed. I know the Upchurches of the Spring Hope area well from several standpoints. One is that my wife grew up just east of Spring Hope and many of her relatives are buried in the cemetery you mention. Because of my wife having lived in the area I had a special opportunity to learn about the Upchurches there. They owned a farm just outside of Spring Hope and my wife went to school in Spring Hope with an Upchurch girl who was a descendant of Benjamin Washington Upchurch. Additionally, my wife's maternal grandmother was nee Lannie Batchelor. Further we have in the Cary Facility Library and excellent Batchelor book. Maybe Lily would like to have a look.

If you have not already sent Jay the tree of Lilly please do so as we would like it to be a part of our archives if that is OK. I would like to have a peak.

We have to avoid too many trails that are interesting but not critical. It is a little hard to see which this is

Your comments will be welcomed and thanks for you input~

Phil,

Thanks so much for your e-mail. I have e-mailed Lily and will send her tree as soon as I get her permission. I do not think it will be an issue at all. Her husband is the Batchelor and I met them both at a DNA conference in March.

I did not realize that your wife had Batchelor ancestry! The first time I ran into the Batchelor family and history was in Salt Lake City when I shared a table with a fellow who was looking at the same Nash County books as I was. He had Batchelor ancestry and told me about them.

My son-in-law's mother's ancestors are from Nash County. They were slaves on the Wm Arrington Cooper and Fred Battle plantations. I am still researching their other roots in the area. Doing this for my granddaughters.

Jay - I know you gave me the rights to Sallaine's tree to view, but it is not coming up now. Can you look at the settings again and let me know when I can view her tree.

I will get back to you soon.

Attached is the link to the Batchelor tree that Lily Tzouris Batchelor has. Her husband is the Batchelor. Please use this link any time you want to refer to her tree, since her Ancestry User name is not found in the search directory. This must be an Ancestry bug.

<https://www.ancestry.com/family-tree/tree/76317156/family>

She has the Batchelor book authored by Lyle Williams. She said it has a lot of mistakes, but it is still helpful. Lily likes to help other researchers, so feel free to reach out to her on Ancestry with any questions or comments.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,

Brenda
