UPCHURCH-McSWAIN INTERACTIONS - Per RPU 20 JUL 2005

In recent years fragments of data have continued to appear about the McSwain Family of Montgomery/Stanley Co, NC from which two females married into the Harmon U clan. If a thorough study of the McSwain Family could be made it might firm up some aspects of Upchurch history.

1. Evelyn Edwards wd — — Grant.

When Charlie Herndon Edwards was a small boy, the Civil War was in progress. According to his daughter, Evelyn Grant, there was a powder mill located on a branch — about where Glenwood Village is located today — and he helped carry water from the branch to the mill. One day there was an explosion at the mill, while Charlie had gone to get water, and several men were killed.

It appears that Elizabeth Reid Murray may have been referring to the same accident on page 469 in her book, Wake: Capital County of North Carolina. In discussing the effort to provide arms and ammunition in the Civil War, she referred to the North Carolina General Assembly offering assistance to those who would construct a powder factory. Accepting the challenge, George B. Waterhouse and Michael Bowes built a powder mill "on House Creek near its entry into Crabtree Creek", Mrs. Murray wrote. "The mill was partially destroyed in June 1862 by an accidental explosion that was 'easily heard in town' and that killed four employees. The victims were Matthew Moonyham, Albert Warren, William H. Struce, and a young Mr. Riggs or Riggsbee", Mrs. Murray recorded.

If the incident which Charlie Edwards observed took place in June 1862, he would have been a mere lad not quite seven years old. Certainly, an explosion of this type, which killed several people, remained in his mind for a lifetime.

'They want to be playing cards or drinking with him'

Wayne's image is preserved

Paintings by the actor's widow set the nostalgic scene for his admirers, including customers of an Arlington restaurant.

By JEFF PRINCE
Star-Telegram Staff Writer

ARLINGTON — John Wayne photos spark unusual memories for the late actor's widow. A buckskin-clad Wayne from 1953's Hondo makes her think of Lassie.

"There was more than one Lassie, you know," said Pilar Wayne Upchurch, recalling an all-night poker game that included Wayne and the handler of the famous collie. "The Duke won all the Lassies. The next day the man was devastated; that was his livelihood."

Wayne gave the dogs back after a good laugh, she said.

Upchurch, a native of Peru but a longtime Californian, moved to Fort Worth after marrying local businessman and philanthropist Jesse Upchurch in 1998. She is a lifelong artist, who produces paintings of Wayne and his Hollywood cronies, along with landscapes and animals.

Texana Grill, a new restaurant on Interstate 20 near Cooper Street, created a rustic John Wayne Room, furnished with cypress tables, hickory chairs and a wall covered with Wayne photos. The owners purchased an Upchurch print for the room and invited her to the commemoration.

Pilar Wayne Upchurch inspects the John Wayne Room at the Texana Grill in Arlington. The large painting in front of her is her work.

"Even though he's not from Texas, he's a legend here," restaurant owner Gilbert Cuelar said of Wayne. "We'll continue to add to this."

Upchurch marveled at a large picture, laminated on wood, with "The Duke" written in rope across the top. It's the nickname she uses when referring to her late husband.

Not that she talks constantly about Wayne.

Before driving to Arlington yesterday, she relaxed in her 3-story, 11,000-square-foot house in southwest Fort Worth. Jesse Upchurch stood in the back yard, watching their German shepherd, Shako, swim in the pool.

"It's a wonderful thing, to paint," she said. "You get lost and forget everything except mixing your paints and getting the right colors."

The walls are covered with original paintings, some in frames, some painted directly onto the wall. Some feature The Duke, others depict landscapes, animals and her children.

She paints in a small studio on the third floor. Rather than stride the stairs, she rides up in a quiet, wood-paneled elevator — the only bare walls in the house.

"I have no walls left," she said, speaking in a gentle voice with a slight Spanish accent. "I guess I could put a few in the elevator."

The studio, next to a window overlooking a golf course, is cluttered with easels and canvases, although her paint tubes are carefully organized on a table.

She has painted most of her life, but never as prodigiously as she has since Wayne died, in 1979.

"When he was living we were like gypsies, moving from location to location," she said. "The kids were little. It was difficult to find time to paint."

She has stuck with realism but is considering an exploration of expressionism. Still, it's her paintings of Wayne that attract the commissions. Movie fans pay her to paint them in scenes with the actor.

"They love John Wayne, and they want to be playing cards with him or drinking with him," she said.

Pilar Palette was 18 and acting in a movie being shot on location on the Amazon River when she met Wayne, who was traveling in the area. The director arranged a dinner party in the actor's honor, and he was seated beside a nervous Palette. She was unfamiliar with his work but thought he was "incredibly handsome."

Wanting to impress him, she complimented his work in For Whom the Bell Tolls.

"I think you've got me mixed up with my friend Gary Cooper," Wayne drawled.

Later, she flew from Peru to a Los Angeles studio to dub the movie.

"I was walking out a door and he was walking in," she said. "He said, 'I remember you, How about having dinner tonight?' I thought, 'Whoa, this guy moves fast.'"

They went to dinner and fell in love.

They married in 1954 and had three children, Ethan, Aissa and Marisa Wayne.

Wayne's movie career began as an extra in silent films and lasted nearly five decades. He won a best actor Oscar for True Grit in 1970.

The couple's house was often filled with friends, including Lee Marvin, Ward Bond, Richard Boone and director John Ford.

Upchurch remembers them as a charismatic, fun-loving bunch.

Except for one.

and John Wayne's widow

weds after 19 years

It was tough finding someone to fill The Duke's shoes, but after 19 years John Wayne's widow Pilar finally remarried last week during an ocean liner cruise.

On November 18, 62-year-old Pilar and Texas mogul Jesse Upchurch, 73, boarded an ocean liner in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., and during a 30-minute ceremony in the ship's observation lounge, they were married, surrounded by 24 of their family and 20 close friends.

Pilar told The ENQUIRER: "Jesse has made me feel like a young, cherished bride again. He bought me a fabulous home in Fort Worth and we have the ranch to go to where he lets his Texas heritage come out and play.

"Whenever I look at Jesse, my heart just goes flip-flop. That's true love."

Pilar was dressed in a full-length white wedding gown with a glittering tiara holding back her hair in Spanish style.

"Pilar's son Ethan gave away the bride to Upchurch, a Texas tycoon, aboard the 439-foot cruise ship Seabourne Legend," said an insider.

Jesse paid $2,000 per person — $92,000 total — for the wedding voyage which left from Ft. Lauderdale, stopped in Nassau and Key West and returned to Ft. Lauderdale on November 21.

Pilar met Jesse on a blind date arranged by Sandy Rhineberger, her business associate and close friend, during a whirlwind weekend in October 1996.

"I knew there were few men in the world who could fill The Duke's shoes," Sandy said. "I also knew that Jesse Upchurch, a strong, quiet Texan, was such a man."

The wedding party continued celebrating when
